ALBANY, Feb 10—The senate passed a bill declaring women eligible to serve as school trustees

Decline in Kansas and Pacific Stock.

NEW YORK Feb 10—The Commercial says that near the close of the Exchange to day the Kansas and Texas sold down to 41½ per cent, which is no doubt a surprise to the numerous following of Jay Gould, who were given a "point" to buy at 47½ per cent. There may be a hitch in the acquisition of property and its release from trusteeship but if so we have not heard it. Gould himself may be ill, as rumored to a day or two past but we do not believe it. Our private advices from Boston lead us to believe that the Topeka and Santa Fe party have the means and ability, as well as determination, to put through the 1100 miles of the Atlantic and Pacific road.

An Outrage Foiled.

MEMPHIS, Feb 10—An usher in the St Peter's Catholic church early this morning heard cries in the church and went in just in time to prevent a negro from ravishing a young white girl who had gone to prayers The negro escaped

A Reverend Rogue at Large.

NEW YORK, Feb 10—Rev Edward Cowley, on trial for starving and ill treating children under his care in the Shepherd's Fold, was admitted to bail to-day in $7 500, his bondsmen being Rev Dr Morgan Dix, of Trinity church, and Rev Dr Robert S Howland of the Church of Heavenly Rest

Suicide.

NEW YORK, Feb 10—Last month, George Beck buried his wife in the Lutheran cemetery, Queens county, Long Island, and to-day went and laid down on her grave and committed suicide by shooting himself.

Extensive Fire.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 10.—The Chatham mills an extensive brick structure corner of Howard and Berks street, burned this evening. Loss, $175,000, mostly insured The principal losers are Harpst, Montague & Co $35,000; Isaac Sted, $50,000; Dolan Bros $25-000, and Wm. Topham, $15,000.

The New Hampshire Fiend.

MANCHESTER, Feb 10—Dillingham confesses that he first shot and then outraged his aunt. The officials have taken him to the Portsmouth jail. Mrs. Dillingham died to-night.

THE RISE IN PAPER.

Opposition by Paper Men to Fort's Bill—Causes of the Recent Advance

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10—Paper men are actively fighting Fort's bill. They say that it is true that printing paper has advanced 40 to 50 per cent. in six to eight months The causes they insist is, that the price of domestic colored rags has increased from one and three-fourths to three and three-fourths cents per pound. Rags had never been so low as they were six months ago when rags of the best quality could be purchased at one and a half cents per pound. This price was not sufficient to induce persons to save and sell rags or pay for their collection. Consequently the stock was very low, and when the business revival began and paper was demanded by all reviving industries, paper dealers were without any stock and the price immediately advanced in this country and Europe. Cablegrams have been received from European dealers within a week, ordering their agents here not to sell another pound of rags, as the price of paper is rapidly advancing there Another cause is the rise in the price of bleaching powder. Eighteen months ago it could be purchased at one cent per pound, now it is two cents. The same is true of soda, ash and of caustic soda, the principal chemicals used in the manufacture of papers Bleaching powder is on the free list, so that it is not a question of tariff as to that article. The price of domestic alum, another important chemical used in making paper, has not materially advanced. Labor has also advanced somewhat.

WASHINGTON CITY.

Census Supervisors.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—In executive session last evening the census committees reported adversely on certain nominations of census supervisors, including some southern ones.

Sherman and the Treasury Patronage.

Representative Belford, of Colorado, has drawn up a resolution, which he will present if a chance is offered, directing an investigation into the alleged use of the patronage of the treasury department by Secretary Sherman for political purposes.

Major Reno's Case.

Major Reno has sent a very urgent letter to the president asking permission to resign his commission in the army rather than suffer dismissal. Accompanying the decision of the court was a recommendation for mercy, signed by all its members, and as Reno has been a gallant soldier, and as his offenses have been attributed to intoxicating liquors, the president is disposed to give him the privilege of resigning in order to save his record. The president is very tender hearted about these matters Not long ago he allowed Lieut. Jerome, of the seventh cavalry, to resign, when he had been sentenced to dismissal by a court martial, and will probably do the same in the Reno case

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

A Chance for Hanlan.

LONDON Feb. 10—The Sportsman announces that Christopher Barras has authorized the editor of that journal to retain £50 of the stakes in the Boyd-Elliott match and issue a challenge to Hanlan, in behalf of Boyd to row a race within a stipulated time for £200 a side, the championship of England and the Sportsman challenge trophy Barras is willing to add £300 more to the stakes if Hanlan would like to row for £500 aside

Boyd will row a race with Hawdon on the Tyne on Saturday for £200

In the match on the Tyne next Saturday for £200, between Robert W Boyd, winner of the race with Elliott yesterday and John Hawdon, the former gives the latter a start of four lengths.

The Theater Royal Fire

DUBLIN, Feb. 10—One woman and seven men were killed and thirteen workmen and firemen seriously injured by the burning of the Theater Royal Everything in the building was consumed including a large and costly wardrobe The theater took fire at about one o clock from a light in the hands of a boy lighting the gas Most of the employes were at dinner at the time, and the flames spread rapidly. Manager Egerton lost his life by remaining too long in the building in an effort to arrest the flames

Sentenced to Death.

MADRID, Feb 10—Gonzalez the would be regicide, has been sentenced to death

Terrible Accident.

CONSTANTINOPLE Feb 10—During a fete a barrack three stories high near here, collapsed Two hundred soldiers were killed and 300 injured thereby

Herat to be Handed over to Persia.

LONDON Feb 10—The Times has reason to believe that directions will be sent to the British minister at Teheran to inform the Persian government that her majesty's government releases Persia from the treaty engagement of 1857 by which Persia bound herself not to take possession of Herat This amounts to an invitation to Persia to do the [illegible] which was really held from doing [illegible] We seem in effect to have [illegible] over to Persia with a view to [illegible]ing the interests of Persia and India [illegible] opposition to Russia

A Just and Cautious View.

LONDON, Feb 10 The Times says We [illegible] learn with pleasure that the permission of the government to Persia to occupy Herat does not involve the guarantee of secure possession If England is to be liable for what may happen in the direction of Herat there seems almost an endless vista of responsibility opening out more and more widely at each remove A demonstration by Russia which would have little or no meaning before might be the ground of a very grave suspicion in view of its possible effect on the state of affairs at Herat

A Vessel Roughly Handled

PLYMOUTH Feb 10—The steamship Chimborazo for Australia returned in consequence of damage during a gale Two persons were washed overboard two killed and 17 injured The steamer lost six boats and received other damage

A League against English Domination of Afghanistan

VIENNA Feb 10—Intelligence has been received through an unimpeachable channel to the effect that at the time General Roberts so unexpectedly found himself in a critical position before Cabul, the Russian general Abramaw, governor of Samarcand, had secretly arrived at Derwasmat the east of Cabul the center of agitation There is no longer the slightest doubt that a league has been formed in Central Asia under the auspices of Russia and against English domination and that the most prominent and influential member of the league is the ameer of Bokhara, whose daughter recently married Aburrahman Khan the Afghan pretender

Marine Disaster.

LONDON, Feb 10—The French steamer Valentine, from Cardiff for Dieppe has foundered Sixteen persons drowned

Death of Distinguished Frenchmen.

PARIS, Feb. 10—Isaac Adolphe Cremieux died to night

M Carrey, deputy of Rambouille, is dead He had traveled a great deal in America, where he was entrusted with several important commercial and political missions

THE BRITISH COMMONS.

Debates on the Proposed Address and Irish Relief Measures

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN]

LONDON Feb 10—In the house of commons last night, Mitchell Henry, home rule member for Galway, resumed debate on the amendment to the address He condemned the government for their inaction in Ireland and suggested a vote of £10,000 000 or £15-000,000 to be used in building railways in different parts of Ireland and the commencement of a system of reclamation of waste lands

W E Forster, liberal member for Bradford, declared that if the government had not done their best to ward off the horrors of famine, no censure would be too great for them. As the government were taking steps to avert famine and as he could not but believe that they would be able to succeed, he should vote against the amendment He could not agree that the land tenure was the sole cause of distress. He hoped that the session would not close without an attempt being made to deal with the land tenure

Wm Henry Smith, first lord of the admiralty, argued that to have entered upon the ambitious schemes of reproductive works in Ireland would have interfered with the natural course of food supply and employment

Thomas A. Dickson, liberal member for Dungarvan, supported the amendment

Edwardhermon, conservative member for Preston, expressed fear that some of the speeches made during this debate would have the effect of curtailing private benevolence

Sir Patrick O Brien, liberal member for King's county, accused the government of encouraging relief from America and France instead of performing their duty themselves

Blenner Hasset, home rule member for Kerry, condemned the government's plans as inadequate

Sir John Sinclair, liberal for Cathenesshire, urged the necessity of nipping parliamentary obstruction in the bud He declared that reports of distress in Ireland were exaggerated.

McCarthy, home rule member for Mallow, and Shaw Levefre, liberal member for Reading, opposed the amendment.

John Edmond Synan, Limerick county and Keys Oclery, Wexford, home rulers, supported the amendment

Edward Dwyer Gray, home rule member for Tipperary, present lord mayor of Dublin, took occasion to express his gratitude to the Duchess of Marlborough for her exertions in behalf of distressed Irish.

The Marquis of Hartington thought that the question in its present shape had been raised too soon He was not in a position to give an opinion yet as to whether the government measures were adequate.

Sir George Bonyer, liberal and home rule member for Wexford, opposed the amendment

The Rt Hon Edward Gibson, attorney general for Ireland, defended the government.

Mr David Gabbit, home rule member for Limerick city then moved adjournment of debate until to-morrow, agreed to

Lord Harlington, liberal leader, in his remarks in the house of commons last night said that though he did not think a large measure of emigration from Ireland necessary, there ought to be a redistribution of population He denied that the land act had failed and protested against the assumption that the present distress was due to it Lord Hartington defended himself against the imputations cast on him and the liberal party in connection with the home rule and Liverpool election, and stated that though he would not have supported Lord Ramsey's candidature for the house of commons had he declared himself a home ruler he regarded his pledge to vote for the committee of inquiry as a difference of opinion as to the manner in which our aim should be met.

O Donnell, home ruler member for Dungarvan said that the colleagues and friends of Parnell are thoroughly resolved to have an opportunity of convicting the government of their misrepresentation concerning him

CONGRESSIONAL.

WASHINGTON Feb 10

Senate

A [illegible] resolution passed appropriating [illegible] for a [illegible] at the Berlin fishery exhibition next April

Davis motion to reconsider the question of the interoceanic canal committee was taken up on motion of Gordon The latter opposed reconsideration and said that on [illegible] he moved to refer the subject of the canal to the commerce committee His objects in doing this so early in the session were to assure the distinguished representative of Nicaragua then in Washington and the capitalists he represented as well as the Nicaraguan government that this government would not be laggard in protecting an enterprise which might be inaugurated on this isthmus and that we might call the attention of this country as well as Europe to the fact that there were those in the American senate who were ready to meet the issue which was now forced upon us and to meet it with the affirmative declaration of the American government that whenever the canal was to be constructed on the American isthmus it should be under the protection of the United States and in the interest of American commerce Afterwards in view of the importance of the subject he had asked for a special committee on the subject which was appointed but Davis (W Va), had objected on the ground of economy and moved to reconsider the vote by which the bill passed Gordon spoke at some length expressing indignation and astonishment that the expense of employing one clerk should be set against the advantage of a thorough consideration of the most important commercial subjects of the age Six hundred millions of people—two thirds of the entire population of the globe—stand ready to deal with us in a commerce boundless in its scope whenever the barrier of the isthmus is broken down He alluded to the great importance of the diplomatic questions involved Was this question to be slighted in view of the expense of hiring a clerk to keep the record of the commission?

The morning hour expired

Eaton hoped that unanimous consent would be given for Gordon to continue his remarks

Edmunds thought that the discussion if continued should be with closed doors under the 6th rule There were parts of it that could not be properly openly considered without violating the rules However, he would not insist on the motion at present

Gordon then resumed his remarks saying that he wished to say nothing about treaty stipulations, etc, this morning Deliberation was asked for that was just what he desired to obtain by the appointment of a committee It had been said that Great Britain would get twenty dollars to our one dollar on commerce through the canal whoever controlled it Is it to be presumed that Great Britain will obtain less of the lion's share of commerce when the canal is certain, or if managed or controlled by America? are we to protest?

Edmunds—Mr President, I rise to a privileged motion under the 6th rule I move that the doors be closed

Gordon—I accede to the motion I see that it will be necessary

McDonald—I call for the regular order

Vice President—That motion is in order

Regular order bill to authorize the secretary of the treasury to ascertain the amount of land located on military warrant in certain states was taken up

Edmunds opposed the bill

Burnside from the committee on education and labor, reported a bill to establish an educational fund and apply a portion of the proceeds of public lands to public education and to provide for a more complete endowment and support of national colleges for the advancement of scientific and industrial education, and moved its indefinite postponement. He spoke at length and will resume his remarks to-morrow The bill authorizes the secretary of the interior to ascertain and certify the amount of land located with military scrip and land warrants in the states of Oregon Nevada and Colorado and others whose enabling acts of admission into the union, contain a stipulation for the payment of five per cent. on sales of public lands therein. It provides that after such ascertainment the secretary of the treasury shall pay such states five per cent. on amounts of such lands estimating them at $1 25 per acre.

The bill authorizing the secretary of the interior to deposit Indian trust funds in the treasury of the United States and to draw interest stipulated by treaty or prescribed by law in lieu of investment was passed

Burnside, from the committee on military affairs submitted a minority report on the bill for the relief of Fitz John Porter, accompanied by the following amendment Strike out all after the enactment clause and insert 'That upon application of Gen Fitz John Porter the president is authorized to grant him a new trial by court martial upon the charges and specifications upon which he was tried and in part convicted by a court martial convened Nov 27 1862. The court martial convened by authority of this act shall consist of not less than thirteen officers of high rank of the army It shall consider all the testimony taken in the first trial as entered upon the record thereof all pertinent official reports both union and confederate, on file in the war department, and such new testimony as may be offered either by the United States or said Porter and said court shall have power, subject to the approval of the president, to confirm mitigate or annul the sentence of the former courtmartial' ordered printed and laid on the table Adjourned

House.

Wood chairman of the ways and means committee, reported a resolution asking for evidence on file respecting the enforcement of the internal revenue laws in northeast Georgia adopted

Conger reported back a bill for the relief of colored emigrants passed

The house after some consideration passed the Hot Springs bill under the previous question vote, 125 to 121.

King chairman of the committee on the inter-oceanic canal reported a resolution calling on the president for copies of all correspondence in regard to the inter-oceanic canal which may have passed between this government and foreign governments, and between this government and its representatives abroad and individuals interested in the construction of such a canal, and directing him to specify what if any treaty obligations with other governments rests upon this government adopted Adjourned

FIRE AT SAN JOSE.

The State Normal School Burned to the Ground—Description of the Building, etc., etc.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN]

SAN JOSE, Cal, Feb 10—Soon after 2 o clock this morning the state normal school was discovered to be in flames Fire was first noticed in the cupola, which before the engines arrived was a pyramid of flame rising in the still night air The fire gained rapid headway, and the water pressure was so weak that the firemen were delayed in getting an efficient stream Within fifteen minutes after the flames were first seen pouring from the cupola the whole interior of the central portion of the building was filled with flames roaring and cracking like an immense furnace The south wing of the building rapidly became involved, and the flames were soon sweeping through the entire building except the north wing The roof fell in with a tremendous crash, and in a little while beams and girders began to drop from their resting places and in a very brief space of time the whole building was in ruins The building was of wood and the main portion had a frontage of 68 feet and a depth of 100 feet On each side of the central building was an arm 52 feet front by 70 deep The height of the central building was 80 feet to the ridge The wings had mansard roofs and were 65 feet in height to the cornice The tower was 22 feet square and rose from the center to a height of 152½ feet The basement walls were of concrete and brick The interior was divided into class and recitation rooms, music room museum, laboratory and apparatus room society rooms gymnasium and lecture room etc The building cost $280 000

There is some reason to believe that the fire was of incendiary origin A family residing in the rear of the school report being awakened by two explosions in quick succession and upon getting up and looking out seeing the entire cupola in flames Others assert that the chimney flues of the building were defective from the time they were put in when the building was constructed There was a total insurance of $50 000 on the house divided into $2,500 and $5000 risks among the principal insurance companies doing business in this state The city market hall has been temporarily secured for the purposes of school

WASHINGTON TERRITORY

From the Skagit Mines

SEATTLE Feb 10—G W McCoy who left the Skagit gold mines with a company of 12 miners on Tuesday last arrived here last evening He states that the party were only thirteen hours making the trip from the diggings to Goodell's place, 12 miles above the head of navigation They passed 60 men on the trail and river on their way into the mines Those already in the diggings are busily engaged in constructing shanties and prospecting The snow is settling rapidly Those going into the mines pack an average of 100 pounds each over the trail The party of miners recently snowed in at the mouth of Panther creek and who it was reported, were likely to starve to death have been found all safe by miners who went in search of them they having killed a number of deer driven out of the mountains by snow McCoy's statements are confirmatory of previous reports concerning the richness of the mines

TRAVELS THROUGH ALASKA.

His Grace Archbishop Seghers Delivers a Very Interesting Lecture at Turn Halle.

Turn Halle was crowded last night with an intelligent and appreciative audience on the occasion of the lecture Travels through Alaska, delivered by His Grace Archbishop Seghers, under the auspices of the Father Mathew T A B Society in aid of the fund for the re-erection of St Francis church, East Portland, which was blown down and wrecked by the late wind storm

Before the lecture the Emmet Guard met at their armory, and, accompanied by the St Michael's College Band marched to the hall of the Father Mathew Society, where they were joined by that organization and escorted them to the hall On reaching Turn Halle they filed into the gallery, which was occupied by them during the evening

His grace was introduced to the audience by Capt Joseph R Wiley He stated that the object of the lecturer was not to give a dry, methodical scientific discourse upon Alaska but to narrate some of his own observations and adventures while traveling through a portion of that almost totally unknown country That the part of Alaska brought into view, was not the southeastern portion in which is situated Sitka and through which the Stickeen river flows, but a region 1200 miles to the northwest of Sitka, and in latitude of 64° 65° and 66° 30

To give an idea of the climate, he stated that during the winter of his sojourn there, the snow was 24 feet deep The climate during summer is foggy and damp The mountains of Alaska are devoid of timber Trees grow only along the lakes and rivers The varieties are willow, cotton trees, pine and birch The valleys, during the summer months, are a succession of marshes and swamps,

At St Micheal's Island is the chief trading post of the Alaska Commercial Co This company has the right, under its contract with the government of the United States to kill 100 000 seals annually The seals are nearly all killed by Indians employed for that purpose who receive about 30 cents for each seal taken The question had often been asked does the Alaska Commercial Company keep its contract with the government? and the lecturer from his own observation, thought that the company did keep its contract That, in fact, it would be almost impossible for them to violate it and escape detection, for the Indians are prohibited to kill seals on their own account and the company watches the Indians and the Indians in turn as closely watch the company The lecturer traveled in company with traders and Indians up the Yucon river and its tributaries The Yucon is a magnificent river 3000 miles long, navigable by vessels of any size for 2000 miles and 600 miles from its mouth is 5 miles wide It is of great depth, and the current is very sluggish, its velocity not exceeding six miles per hour in any place and averaging about three miles per hour The volume of water flowing through it is so great that where it empties into the straits the water is fresh enough to drink six miles out from shore

The lecturer related many amusing incidents of his journey through this region, of their sufferings from mosquitos, of being so hungry that they made an enjoyable meal of a boiled chicken hawk He described the mode of travel, which is by sleds drawn by dogs. The sleds are from 8 to 10 feet long and carry from 200 to 300 pounds They are drawn by seven eight or nine dogs harnessed together in pairs One dog takes the lead and they are preceded by a Russian runner who shows them the path to follow

The language used by the traders in Alaska is a kind of Russian jargon It is a very simple language, but the words being taken from the Russian are difficult to learn

There are two distinct classes of Indians in Alaska those who inhabit the coast and those occupying the interior The coast Indians are short and fat They live principally on fish and oil The Indians of the interior are tall and slender and live upon game The coast Indians obtain spirits from whalers and others, and are dissipated The interior Indians are sober and temperate The language customs and manners of the two classes of Indians are much alike in every respect It is held by some that the Indians of the interior are of the aborigines of America and that the coast Indians came from Japan or China but the wonderful similarity of all of their customs and their languages would seem to point to a common origin It is at times very cold in that latitude For two days the thermometer stood about 60° below zero

After describing the habitation and manner of living of the natives and giving many interesting facts concerning [illegible] try the lecturer retired for a few minutes to prepare to exhibit the costume worn by both whites and Indians while traveling in Alaska He reappeared in a short time clothed from head to foot in furs He wore a long sleeved garment of reindeer fur covering the whole body and reaching below the knee Attached to this was a heavy fur [illegible] for the head Covering the feet and legs were long boots of deer skin [illegible] and are used only in winter In [illegible] boots of seal skin which are entirely water proof are worn

In this costume he gave some specimens of the music of the Alaska Indians They have the notes in all their purity and a perfect idea of time Most of these songs have no words The notes are sung accompanied by the beating of time with a stick [illegible] A description was then given of an Indian dance with which the lecture closed

The lecture throughout was listened to with marked attention It was replete with matter of information instruction and entertainment That it was highly appreciated by the large audience present was attested by frequent interruptions of applause during the whole evening

LETTER FROM WASHINGTON CITY

[REGULAR CORRESPONDENCE OF THE OREGONIAN]

WASHINGTON D C Jan 28 1880

THE NEW YORK PLAN

If the present New York legislature shall see fit to choose the presidential electors to which the Empire state is entitled it will act in harmony with the constitution and with precedents but will stand guilty before the nation of an attempt to suppress the popular voice For years the electors of South Carolina were chosen by its legislatures but it was never doubted that those electors truly represented the political views of the majority of the people of that state, so no violence to the spirit of our institutions was perpetrated But New York is so confessedly a doubtful state that fair play demands that the people shall have an opportunity to express their views as to their chief ruler

The election of electors by districts however founded upon a republican doubt of their ability to carry the state especially against fraud and bribery is a totally different question This plan will give a much better expression of every man's vote than our present system I am not convinced of its wisdom It causes us to start out in the canvass admitting our distrust as to our superiority in that state If 1880 should repeat 1876 New York would give the democrats but 1 out of the 35 electors leaving the two electors at large in doubt But that is not to be expected and should not be counted upon The vote of 1878 was very high especially that of the democracy many of whom preferred the success of the republicans rather than that their own party should be captured by the greenbackers The election of 1876 is a better test Then Tilden had 32 742 majority over Hayes and of the congressmen the republicans secured 17, and the democrats 16

Comparing the results of several recent elections, I find that fifteen of the New York districts are undoubtedly republican, ten undoubtedly democratic, while eight are doubtful Six of these doubtful districts have republican proclivities, and two democratic proclivities Of course the battle would chiefly rage in these eight districts If we were sure of an honest election, I would disapprove of this new plan, for then, we could almost certainly secure its 35 votes Under this new plan we are assured of at least 15 votes Fraud and bribery cannot rob us of them But if the remaining 20 votes are given to the democrats, in addition to the solid south, New Jersey and Indiana, they will need but three more to secure the national victory. This will leave Tilden, (who will capture the democratic nomination) free to use his money to corrupt Connecticut or some other small state It would remove the pivot from New York to the Pacific coast Now Tilden has to scatter his money over the whole state knowing that every dollar thereof has reference to 35 electoral votes—and victory Then he can confine his corrupt practices to half a dozen districts, leaving the two electors at large to be secured by the overshadowing frauds in New York city and Brooklyn One reason why the plan meets with favor is that it may not be possible to secure marshals and supervisors, without whom these two cities will make sure of a democratic victory in that state And if marshals and supervisors be employed the democratic congress may count out the republican electors The ultimate good is that it will hasten the substitution of elections by districts for our present effete and dangerous system There are perilous times immediately ahead

The adoption of this new plan will enable Blaine, if nominated to secure 15 or 20 electoral votes in that state The marplot—Conkling—has operated mainly in democratic districts, creating apathy therein so that the republican vote has greatly shrunk but, under this plan our vote in those districts may shrink to nothing, and yet success smile upon us in the remainder of the state

THE INTERSTATE COMMERCE BILL

After exhaustive labor the committee of the New York legislature to investigate the railroad question, has reported Its main recommendation is, let the sunlight of publicity shine upon railroad management And this is the outcome of similar committees in England and Massachusetts To secure that sunlight let a commission be created, whose main duty shall be to bring railroad directors to the bar of public opinion And if compact and thickly settled states, like New York and Massachusetts, can devise nothing more searching than this, of what utility will any congressional action on this subject be? The truth is, 'the whole boundless continent is ours' The New York committee protest against pro-rata laws and the publication of freight schedules as depriving the railroad system of its necessary elasticity

The bill now before congress has two main features First, make a car load the unit of this equation, and compel railroads to carry this unit over the same distance for all parties as at low a rate as a thousand cars In other words, wholesale dealers must receive no more favorable rates than retail dealers And this is right, for where competition is impossible, the government must exercise its regulating hand that corporations shall not become grasping and crushing monopolies, lending their aid to the absorption of the smaller by the larger firms If our various corporations could go on unchecked by law or public opinion a half century would witness the most arbitrary grinding and godless reign this world ever saw Because abnormal power is put into the hands of our corporations every one of them should be regarded as prima facie public enemies, to be strictly watched and sternly limited. And harsh and communistic as this may sound, it is simply another way of expressing the generally received truism, that human nature is liable to abuse power

The second feature of the bill is that more shall not be charged for a short haul than a longone This is entirely impracticable, carried out, and our grain and meats are ruled out of the markets of Europe If the way rates are reduced, the roads can only be saved from bankruptcy by greatly advancing their through rates and then Russian wheat will rule supreme in England and France.

THE EFFECTIVE WEAPON AGAINST RAILROADS

Railroads like most corporations desire profit To effectually govern them you must strike at their coffers Pass a few simple laws protecting the people among which let the first feature of the Reagan bill be one and then the keeping of railroads within proper limits will depend simply upon the enforcement of those laws Juries are generally only too willing, often unjustly willing to mulch corporations knowing which those corporations are ready to compromise rather than go into courts provided they know that they cannot worry out or exhaust the resources of a litigant

Let every legislature incorporate a state protection society so as to avoid the objection to maintenance and barratry with power to establish county societies Admit persons to membership in these societies on the payment of proper dues Let these societies employ counsel and prosecute cases of its members against railroads Then victory will be at hand The purse will be ample the juries favorable the humblest and poorest railroad victim can have his day in court at a nominal expense to himself and little exactions will be punished as well as great ones Simple as the above may seem it is the best outcome of my years of thought as to how to keep corporations from being public oppressors as well as public benefactors If they combine against the people to injure them, the people must combine against them or in other words set corporation against corporation

CONKLING

Mrs Conkling came here and quietly attended a small dinner party at Mrs Sprague's Thus in a dignified way Conkling sets that scandal at rest and now he may come out as a presidential candidate If he does so he must sit down on that new plan or he will find it will be generally understood that his power for evil his only remaining capital is destroyed and his hopes based upon that [illegible]

LEGISLATION

Both Mr Slater and Mr Whiteaker have introduced bills for the relief of those who furnished the money and the materials and the labor some $30 000 for the construction of the United States revenue cutter Thomas Corwin The prospect is that the latter who relied upon their mechanics lien will be reimbursed but that the former failing to take proper security will suffer from their own negligence This bill passed the senate during the last congress but not the house

Mr Whiteaker asks that Astoria be paid for the improvement of the streets around the custom house building in that city He also asks for $175 000 to build a revenue steamer to ply in the waters of Alaska

Through Mr Slater Mr A C Lockwood and others actual settlers in The Dalles military reservation petition for authority to purchase their lands at some fixed price

Mr Slater will introduce Mr Mitchell's bill to bridge the river at Portland

He tells me that Secretary Schurz has agreed to the removal of the Indians in Oregon with their consent or giving them lands in severalty the remainder of their reservations to be sold for their respective benefit Then each 10 acres of said reservations will be appraised and parties willing to live upon and improve their lands for one year at least may purchase 160 acres each All those Indians who will abandon their tribal relations will have the first selections

Mr Grover's absence has delayed the senate committee in their consideration of Northern Pacific Railroad matters

Mr Ainslie has introduced a bill providing for the hard labor of all inmates of territorial prisons in Idaho, the proceeds thereof to be applied to defraying the expenses of such prisons

Now, military reservations are confined to one mile square which is sometimes too much and sometimes not enough Mr Brents has introduced a bill allowing the war department to take what it may deem fit for such purposes

APPOINTMENTS AND PERSONALS

Register R G Stuart, of Olympia, will be re-appointed

Marshal Hopkins, of Washington, stands a pretty good chance to succeed himself and will unless Mr A Reed aspires to it, if not, not

Mr Isaac B Eastman, postmaster at Tumwater having cast off this mortal coil, E F Eastman will succeed him

Patriotism is at so low an ebb at Brush Prairie, Clarke county Washington, that no candidate for its postoffice has appeared, and hence the office is discontinued. Think of it, an office, not an officer, wiped out, extinguished! It was never thus in this Washington for such a cause Your Washington is a strange place, productive of many instances of low public spirit Such examples may be contagious and should be stopped

Salem A Wood postmaster at Park Place Snohomish county has actually resigned but Henry McClurg steps forward to catch the trailing banner

Capt E Miles (and wife) of the U S army is here endorsed by the whole Pacific coast for promotion, because of honorable service in the Bannock and Nez Perce wars. The above sentence is somewhat mixed, but let it stand, even if it does endorse and promote the "wife" also, for mighty few ever get or deserve endorsement or promotion without the wife's being largely instrumental therein

I also notice the arrival of Mr B H Dunn of Idaho CAPITAL

THE SOUTH AMERICAN WAR.

The Argentine States about to Enter against Victorious Chile—A Strong Naval Force to be Thrown against that Country.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN]

NEW YORK, Feb 10—The Times editorially on recent intimations that the Argentine republic is apparently on the point of throwing her sword into the scale of the allies, while Chile prepares for this stroke by calling 50 000 men to her flag, says Chile's quarrel with the La Plata republic is far older than the one with Bolivia, and threatened war years ago. Its subject is the ownership of Patagonia. Both countries found themselves studying and questioning what their actual possessory rights in Patagonia were at the time of throwing off the Spanish yoke. They differed totally in the results of their investigations and talked of resorting to blows as a means of settlement. The matter has remained in statu quo, but the Argentine government has been jealous of the Chilean military and naval prowess. It recognizes that it is time to intervene for the settlement of all questions affecting its autonomy It is now or never The first effect of this intervention would be to restore the naval strength of the allies It is said that the Argentine republic has a ready bought the Italian iron clads Roma and Venezia The story doubtless gains credence from the natural friendliness of Italy toward the Italian people on the La Plata The Roma and Venezia are ranked on the new Italian list in the highest class of Italy's iron clads They are sister ships, 250 feet long, costing each $1,155,000, carrying six 58 ton and two 21 ton Armstrong's. Even the present navy of the Argentine republic is by no means contemptible, although probably inferior to that of Chili It includes half a dozen iron clads, two of which are English built turret vessels, 188 feet by 44 and each carrying two 300 pound Armstrongs The other four iron clads also English built, are smaller and there are several additional vessels in the Argentine navy, some iron and wooden

GREENBACKS AGAIN

Mr Bayard of Delaware hard money democrat, in his speech in the senate on the [illegible]th January on his resolution to divest treasury notes or greenbacks of their legal tender quality was severely logical that is he followed his proposition that congress had no right to issue paper and call it money through to the conclusion that every subsequent step taken was wrong and that there was nothing to do but to go back to the beginning and get right as soon as possible and this he proposed to do by divesting the greenbacks of their legal tender power with a view to their being taken up by the treasury and retired from circulation He argued that withdrawal of legal tender power could do harm to no man and could not lessen the value of the notes in the hands of any holder, because an equivalent for their face value is offered in gold and silver coin in case any creditor should refuse to accept them He made an earnest appeal to the senate to shut the door forever lock it, and throw away the key which admits a legal tender currency to take the place of a stable standard, having universal and intrinsic value And the old traditions of the democratic party were appealed to for support of this position.

The views of those who argue as Bayard does, for metallic money are answered by the assertion that retirement of paper currency would diminish by two-thirds of its volume the legal tender money or debt paying power of the country It is insisted further that the scarcity of legal tender money would virtually increase all classes of debts and give creditors enormous advantages, since, as money would be in small supply and hard to raise, other forms of property would diminish in value and the man who happened to be in debt would be crushed simply by the scarcity of money and the difficulty of obtaining it One of the false places in this argument is the assumption that the debtor class and creditor class are separate and distinct from each other Nearly every person who owes money has money also due to him, and the aggregate of debts due from individuals must be about balanced by debts due to them In consequence of failure to keep this in view, there is much error in speaking of debtors and creditors as separate classes, one of which would have power in certain contingencies to crush the other

It is, however, undoubtedly the present judgment of the country that the financial status be not now disturbed. It is argued that the country is doing well enough and that the true policy is to let the finances alone. This is good enough under present conditions; but every student of financial history knows how changes are likely to occur under conditions like those now existing with us, which might and probably would render our present position untenable, and throw our financial system again into extreme confusion. We must keep an enormous amount of gold locked up in the treasury to sustain our paper circulation Should there be a time in the tide of trade which would reduce our stock of gold, and should there be another season of panics and business depression, all of which is sure to come some time, why should we not expect to see suspension of specie payments again, and gold at a great premium?

FAITHFUL COUNSELS

A very sensible view of the intrigue in progress to make Gen. Grant president again is taken by the Salem Statesman. That journal says that the managers in Pennsylvania did an extremely unwise thing when they instructed for Grant, especially in view of the strong opposition that existed and the bitter antagonism that is sure to follow The [illegible] of Grant, it rightly says, cannot afford [illegible] opposition. Also, that "there are a great many persons in the republican party who admire Grant, but feel that he has made his record and now stands pre eminently [illegible] than he could hope to do should he again enter the political arena, and these persons, so believing, will oppose his nomination, and many of them, should he be nominated, will not vote for him." These are [illegible] statements. If the republican press generally would speak with equal spirit and independence, the danger of seeing this Grant movement pushed to a point where serious division of the party is a most probable result would be averted. It is too much the reproach of the press in many localities that on such a subject it yields with slavish obedience to the dictates of unscrupulous and self-seeking party managers. No state will instruct for Grant whose republican press is truly independent and outspoken.

[illegible] If Grant is now the man, he will be the man again four years hence, and again [illegible] years hence. The ring who hope to profit from his presidency will always be ready with reasons as cogent as any they are able to offer now to show that he is essential to the peace of the country and the perpetuity of the government. Should he be elected [illegible] third term his adherents would manage everything with a view to pushing him for a fourth. It might be as well for the Chicago convention, if it nominates him next June, to [illegible] a short way for the future by proposing an amendment to the constitution, so as to make him president for life This would do away with the trouble of these elections

General Grant was president for eight years His manner and methods of administration are well known. Government in his hands [illegible] close corporation, run for the benefit of his personal favorites and adherents and those who never weigh with judgment The Penn Monthly justly says. Gen Grant is a man of invincible likings and mislikings It is the former that are most dangerous to a president. His friendships once formed, seem to be indissoluble, and they have not always been formed with either the fastidiousness of a cultivated gentleman, or the insight into personal capacity which is supposed to characterize a great leader There is not to day in public life, a single man of all the obscure [illegible] in whom the general was said to have discovered great administrative abilities nor do his judicial appointees, although very numerous, constitute by any means, the glory of our United States bench'

It was Grant's methods of administration which placed a great and hitherto invincible party, a party which was backed by the patriotism and supported by the gratitude of the country, in a defensive position in which it was obliged to fight for its existence and from which it barely escaped without overwhelming disaster. Is it desired that the party should be reduced to such straits again Should Grant be elected president in 1880 the republican party would take a crushing defeat in 1884, for that is the only possible consequence of the Grant methods of politics and administration

All efforts to settle the quarrel between the Tilden party and the Tammany party in New York have again failed The new declaration of Tammany against Tilden is simply war to the knife, as heretofore Should the Tilden-Robinson combination control the New York democratic state convention Tammany will call another convention and send a delegation to the national convention [illegible] the party [illegible] the [illegible] for the [illegible] renewing the [illegible] to Tilden and the war [illegible] in this [illegible] manner We killed Robinson last November and as sure as the sun rises on election day next November we will kill Sam Tilden if the national convention is fool enough to nominate him for president Without the thirty five votes of his own state he can not be elected and we are strong enough to prevent him from getting those thirty five votes This is no [illegible] play We mean war to the end and that end will be very bitter to Tilden if he persists in forcing himself upon his party as a presidential candidate next summer

Disarmament of the European powers has long been a dream of the international peace society and of various individuals of an optimistic turn of mind but it is a consummation which actually appears more remote than ever Bismarck recently announced the intention of the German empire to augment its army to a peace footing of 431,000 men and he asserts there are special reasons why this increase should be made Even with the proposed additions the German army will be smaller than that of France or Russia The magnitude of these preparations would seem to indicate something more than an armed truce and it will require great care and prudence to prevent these forces from coming into collision The London Times declares that far greater issues are now at stake in Europe than in any other quarter of the globe

A View of the Grant Job in Pennsylvania.

Washington correspondence of the New York Herald discussing the work of the Pennsylvania republican convention presents these statements

On the whole this has been according to the opinion here a disastrous and probably fatal day for the third term movement and has put the nomination of the ex president out of the category of possibilities unless he shall consent to become formally and openly a seeker for the place a contestant for the position which many of his best friends here have always openly maintained to be impossible for him humiliating to him and ruinous to his prospects, because as has often been urged for him, to be a mere office seeker would lower him in the esteem and confidence of the public If he is nominated by the spontaneous and unanimous wish of his party then he might honorably accept I think said one of his friends though I would regret even that. But if there is no such spontaneity if there is opposition in the party to him, then he cannot allow himself to be placed in the fatal position of contestant for it It would at once be said that if he seeks the office he ought not to have it There is no doubt that Cameron has blundered. His friends here hoped he would be contented with getting the delegation ordered to vote as a unit and then saying nothing about instructions but depend upon his ability in the convention to control the delegation for his purposes But he evidently did not know how to surrender his own will and it is, in addition guessed here that he found a reason on his arrival in Harrisburg to fear that the delegation would not be as obedient to him in Chicago as he wished and had he expected to control it later it is believed he would not have been so strenuous about instructions

The New York Electors

The course proposed in New York of providing for election by districts of electors of president and vice president continues to be a subject of discussion in eastern journals The Chicago Times (independent) says of it

Every one foresees that if the proposed change in New York be not made that commonwealth will be the theater of the most furious and fearful party conflict that ever threatened any political system with shipwreck. All the enginery of fraud villainy and perhaps violence that party demagogism can command will be concentrated and put into furious activity there Every method of corruption and crime that the ingenuity of demagogues can invent will be put forth not to ascertain the electoral choice, but to compass the party end. What disastrous consequences will be the outcome of such a struggle no man can foresee Finally the proposition is fair just, and right on principle. It proposes to give to every division of electors having the right of choosing a representative in the national legislature the right of appointing an elector to choose the executive who shall execute the legislative will. Who will venture to say this is not fair not right not in strict accordance with the supreme principle of government by the people?

An Annoying Question

[From the New York World Dem]

Will not Senator Morgan of Alabama or Senator Coke, of Texas kindly tell the country why it was that the confederate congress refused to make confederate money a legal tender in private transactions, and also why it is that prominent ex confederates in the Union congress now insist that the Union congress shall do what in principle the confederate congress condemned?

WEDNESDAY MORNING FEB 11 1880

CITY.

Emmet Guard Ball.—For comprehensiveness of arrangements in any undertaking and thorough execution thereof, the Emmet Guard of this city stand without a rival we might say equal. This fact was forcibly illustrated by their ball at the company's armory Monday evening last. On entering the hall the attention was immediately arrested by the brilliant display of streamers and flags. All round the Stars and Stripes and banners were intertwined giving the hall an artistic taste of grandeur. The floor manager and his assistants executed their duties in a tactful and gentlemanly manner. Capt Dorsey may well feel proud of his company and all who attended. One hundred couple participated.

Large Attendance.—There were 1,[illegible] school children in attendance in the various public schools of this city yesterday, distributed as follows: High 140, Central [illegible], Harrison Street 702, North [illegible]. There are 168 more in school now than at the close of the term Jan 30th. The most remarkable increase is in the Harrison Street district. When the term closed a week since there were in attendance and now there are [illegible]. Where all these come from is more than the average citizen can tell. In six years the attendance in all schools has increased from 1038 to 1,081. Of the 702 in the Harrison Street district 60[illegible] were accommodated in the new building and the remainder in the Park building.

The Olympic Club.—The Olympic club has just received direct from Chicago 120 charts which includes the entire system of gymnastics from beginning to the ending. These charts represent what is known as the "Ling System," which is justly regarded as the best and most complete system in use. The charts are very handsomely lithographed and show several thousand positions and gymnastic groupings. Aided by these illustrations, the members of the Olympic club can scarcely help making rapid proficiency in the gymnastic art. We are gratified to know that the club was never in a more prosperous condition.

A New Departure.—A striking advance has been made by the management of our neighbor, the Evening Telegram in the conduct and character of that journal. Besides giving, as heretofore fresh telegraphic news each day it will endeavor to outstrip all competitors in the excellence of its city news department. With this purpose Mr W R Boone has been added to its reportorial force and will share the city work with Mr John J Barnett who remains in his former connection with the paper. Both are well known writers, and will undoubtedly make the Telegram a complete and spirited local paper.

Executive Committee.—C A Sehlbrede of Salem G W C T., G W Dimick of Hubbard, grand treasurer, and B H Allen of Halsey, G W counselor, came down on the morning train to attend a meeting of the executive committee of the Grand Lodge, I. O. G. T. of Oregon. The persons named together with Mrs Julia Simpson, G W V T., and Mrs C A Coburn G W secretary, comprise the committee. The committee met at the office of the grand secretary to arrange plans for spring work, and legislate for the good of the order.

Special Religious Service.—In sympathy with the purpose that sets apart this day in the Christian church as the beginning of a special season for self examination and penitence, there will be services in the chapel of the Unitarian church this (Wednesday) evening at half past seven. Brief discourse by the pastor, on "Secret Faults and Besetting Sins." Social singing before and after the services. The public is invited.

Committee Coming.—There is a well defined report that when Mr Villard comes out to Oregon in April next a committee representing great capital, some of which has already been invested in the Oregon Railway and Navigation Company, will come with him. The object is to view the situation here and the chances for investment. Among the company will be Geo M Pullman, of the Pullman Car Company.

Lecture by Rev Mr Cruzan.—On Friday evening at the woman's convention in the Y. M. C. A. hall, at 8 o'clock, sharp, Mrs J A Cruzan will render the exquisite operatic selection from Haydn's oratorio "On Mighty Pens." Mr Cruzan will follow with an address, subject, "Woman and the Bible."

Contract Let.—The committee on streets and public property yesterday let the contract for improving Water street from Columbia to Hall to Perry G Baker. The cost of the improvement will be about $2300.

Quite Ill.—Mr A. H Morgan, is lying dangerously ill at his residence in this city. He is too low to see any one but his family and attendants. We hope to note his early recovery.

Ash Wednesday.—Divine service will be held this morning in St Stephen's chapel at 11 o'clock, also during the lenten season service every Thursday evening at 7 o'clock.

The earnings of the Northern Pacific railroad for December, 1879 were $108,818 against $62,470 for December, 1878. The increase was $46,348.

BOARD OF FIRE UNDERWRITERS.

At a meeting of the board of fire underwriters yesterday afternoon in the office of W H Caldwell, the following standing committees were appointed:

Tariff and Rates—P C Schuyler, Donald Macleay and A. Bachman.

Revisions and Writing Policies—G Woodward H. Hewett and H. Boyd.

Fire Department and Water Supply—J Bachman, W F Brown and P. C. Schuyler.

Arson—Geo. A. Webb T Connell and D Macleay.

The officers for this year are W H Caldwell president, P C Schuyler, vice president, and Geo. A Webb, secretary and treasurer.

THE TURNERS' MASQUERADE

The Turn Verein have been making extensive preparations for their annual masquerade which will take place next Monday night. In former years the balls given by this society have been noted for the handsome costumes worn, the high character of those who participated and the general good feeling which pervaded the audience and there is every indication that the coming masquerade will equal if not surpass any before given.

PERSONAL.

Mr N Kohn of Rosenthal Feder & Co, San Francisco is at the Holton house.

Mr H H Whitten, of San Francisco has assumed charge of the mercantile agency of R G Dun & Co in this city. Mr A. M Crocker continues with the agency as traveling correspondent.

To be Regretted.—The many friends of Mrs G C Rider will be pained to learn of the very poor state of that lady's health. Some months ago she had a very severe attack of pneumonia, from the effects of which she is still suffering. Mr Rider has wisely concluded to take her to Eastern Oregon for a few months, where she can have the benefit of a dry pure atmosphere. His entire property in this city is for sale. It consists of the Morning Star restaurant, undoubtedly the most complete and best paying restaurant in the city, four new and elegant houses situated on Fourth and College streets and one half block in south Portland. The latter will be sold in lots to suit purchasers.

AMUSEMENTS

The [illegible].—[illegible] five act play [illegible] was presented at the New Market theater last evening to a [illegible]. Miss Josie Cameron the young and [illegible] some [illegible] personated the somewhat [illegible] character of Julia [illegible] professional [illegible] The [illegible] appears [illegible] footlights [illegible] dressed the character [illegible] exquisite taste. Some of the more [illegible] In several of the dramatic crises she acquitted herself in a manner not discreditable to a professional. She possesses a fine stage presence, a graceful figure and a face [illegible] some at least pleasant. There were some [illegible] with experience [illegible] from an artistic standpoint the character [illegible] Miss Cameron deserves more than passing mention. The lady gave unmistakable evidence of talent and with study and experience can confidently hope to achieve a fair measure of success in the profession of her adoption. The support was excellent. Worthy of special mention was the Master Walter of [illegible] Thomas [illegible] of Mr Lindsay [illegible] of Miss Adams and the Master [illegible].

Monte Cristo.—The great romantic drama of Monte Cristo will be produced at the theater this evening which has been in preparation for some time. John R Wilkins the scenic artist has painted since his arrival here some very striking sets for the scene especially the Chateau D'If and the palace of Monte Cristo. The piece will be well and appropriately costumed and in putting on pieces carefully prepared in all appointments and with a very excellent cast of characters the play ought to draw a very large house this evening. The story itself is one of all absorbing interest, being in fact one of the greatest romances penned by any novelist. A good interpretation of the chief character Monte Cristo may be expected at the hands of Mr Chaplin while the subordinate characters are in competent hands. Seats can be secured at Blumauer's drug store.

IRELAND'S SONS

Meeting of the Joint Committee—Preparations for Celebrating St Patrick's Day—Ball to be Given by the P. H. B. S.—Plans for Relief of Irish Sufferers

On Sunday last the committees appointed by the Portland Hibernian Benevolent Society, the Ancient Order of Hibernians, and the Father Matthew Total Abstinence Society held a joint meeting and as some misunderstanding as to the action of the committee has arisen we have been requested to state that all the preliminary arrangements necessary at present for the appropriate celebration of St Patrick's day were made, such as the appointment of sub committees on hall, music, orator etc. The committee will hold other meetings from time to time to perfect arrangements and it is expected that a more imposing demonstration than usual will be made on the day held in such enthusiastic remembrance by Irishmen the world over.

At the meeting of the joint committee the proposition to take some steps towards raising funds in this city for the relief of the suffering poor of Ireland was laid before the meeting and all agreed that something should be done. After some discussion it was decided to appoint a sub committee of three to make arrangements for a mass meeting of the people of Portland irrespective of nationality and inviting Mayor Thompson to issue a call and to preside at such meeting. The time for this meeting however has not been fixed. It may be on St. Patrick's day or it may be earlier as it is agreed that whatever is done should be done quickly. Due notice of the time will be furnished the public.

The grand annual ball to be given under the auspices of this long established and well known organization, the Portland Hibernian Benevolent Society will conclude the celebration of St Patrick Day and will be a conspicuous event of that occasion.

NEWS NOTES FROM ALBANY.

ALBANY, February 10th

The Pacific Coast directory man is in town this week preparing for a republication of his directory.

The usual ceremonies on Chinese New Year took place yesterday hardly as many fire crackers exploded as usual but the gods were appeased and the average celestial made happy.

Dr J W. Watts delivered a lecture before the Blue Ribbon Club of this place on Saturday evening last. His text was taken from the Declaration of Independence "Life Liberty and Happiness." The lecture was an able one and well received by a large and appreciative audience.

We here mention as prominent democratic candidates for sheriff in this county the following names: James Charlton, Thos. Munkers, Ike Miller, Geo Humphrey and Leander Stites, and for clerk the following: D P Mason, Geo. E. Chamberlain, R. N Armstrong, Capt F C Harper, John Brown and —— Peter. The republicans have some candidates for these offices but they are not so numerous.

At the last meeting of the Blue Ribbon Club the following officers were elected: President Prof E. F Sox, secretary, Miss Maggie Foster, treasurer Mrs L. E Blain. The following delegates were elected to attend the State Temperance Alliance at Eugene: Prof E F Sox, Mrs. James Foster, Mr and Mrs L E Blain, Mr and Mrs. U E Wolverton, Capt. N B Humphrey, Miss Kate Conner, Chas Hufforden, M S Monteith and W G Steel. At the next meeting of the Club other delegates will be elected as the Club is entitled to about forty five.

OREGON STATE WOMAN'S ASSOCIATION

The Ladies in Council—Eighth Annual Meeting of the Association—Address by Mrs Duniway the President—Committees Appointed—Transaction of General Business

[illegible] Woman [illegible] yesterday afternoon [illegible] But [illegible] the president [illegible] read the [illegible]

[illegible] eighth annual meeting [illegible] we are [illegible] favorable circumstances. A retrospect [illegible] us whom [illegible] for the purpose [illegible] liberty [illegible] New [illegible] and work [illegible] editors [illegible] lawyers, physicians, judges [illegible] legislators [illegible] artists and artisans of every class, while among the [illegible] teachers, artists and a [illegible] and last but by no means least the great army of workers without wages who dwell in homes [illegible] high and low degree the reading [illegible] reasoning mass of womanhood [illegible] learned to appreciate the value of a personal voice in making and directing the laws and usages of the government which they are personally taxed to sustain and to the power of which they are held amenable. If they break a law which they are denied a voice in making. Protected and sustained by this association we have through our officers and members repeatedly held conventions, addressed legislatures and regularly presented petitions and memorials for both state and federal consideration which have in all cases been favorably received. While our demand has not yet secured [illegible] equality [illegible] larger opportunities for women in educational, industrial and professional pursuits. We have achieved in many instances all we have asked in regard to the social and civil rights of wife, mother and widow, and we especially congratulate ourselves upon the increasing respect there is everywhere expressed for the final recognition [illegible] right that includes all others—[illegible] school questions [illegible] already [illegible] granted and women are actually voting [illegible]. Married women's sole trader bills and married women's property bills have been passed by the legislature. Gentlemen of distinction in law theology and letters now consider it an honor to advocate our equal claims with themselves to the inalienable rights of life liberty and happiness.

Glancing from our own state over the other portions of this vast union we find [illegible] with pride the fact that when opportunity was granted [illegible] by their legislature [illegible] men voted for woman suffrage in Michigan, [illegible] in Kansas [illegible] in Colorado [illegible] in Minnesota in favor of women's voting on temperance and women are not only voting on the school question in Oregon but in Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, Colorado, California, New Hampshire and Massachusetts. The Minnesota legislature at its last session passed a resolution urging congress to submit a sixteenth amendment for woman suffrage. Such a bill is now pending in the Iowa legislature and has already passed the Iowa house.

In the United States senate petitions for a sixteenth amendment declaring suffrage based upon citizenship without distinction of sex and memorials praying for the removal of individual women's political disabilities have been lately presented by Wm Wheeler, vice president of the United States, Mr Beck and Mr Williams, of Kentucky, Mr Allison and Mr Kirkwood of Iowa, Mr Dawes of Massachusetts, Mr Ferry of Michigan, Mr Kernan of New York, Mr Pendleton of Ohio, Mr Conkling of New York, Mr Davis, of Illinois, Mr Anthony of Rhode Island, Mr Baldwin of Michigan, Mr Voorhees of Indiana, Mr Saunders of Nebraska, Mr Farley of California, Mr Vest and Mr Cockrell of Missouri, Mr Paddock of Nebraska, Mr Booth of California, Mr Burnside of Rhode Island, Mr Wallace of Pennsylvania, Mr McPherson of New Jersey, Mr Cameron of Pennsylvania, Mr Hoar, of Massachusetts, Mr Plumb of Kansas, Mr McDonald of Indiana, Mr Hamlin of Maine and Mr Thurman of Ohio. We live in hope that our own Senator Slater will soon follow the example of his illustrious predecessors. (Women are as fully enfranchised as men in Wyoming and as nearly so as any man in Utah who is not a Mormon.)

Congress has passed a bill in both houses by overwhelming majorities admitting women to practice law before the supreme court of the United States and it is manifestly absurd to admit them to plead cases involving important interests between man and man before the highest tribunal in the land, and yet deny them the right to a voice in closing a dram shop or erecting a town pump. Appeals for the enfranchisement of women were heard during the forty fifth congress by the committee on privileges and elections, and the arguments thus presented were printed in the Congressional Record. The forty sixth congress contains an unusually large proportion of new representatives fresh from the people ready for the discussion of new issues, who have, as you have seen already manifested a just spirit toward the repeated appeals of women citizens for political recognition. From the very birth of our nation, gifted women like Abigail Adams and Lucretia Mott inspired by the grand principles of a free government as expressed in the declaration of independence have been asking that the rights of women as citizens of the republic be granted. The history of the nation during the past twenty years has educated women into broader ideas of individual citizenship and personal liberty and taught them the way to attain political equality by national legislation. The African race was enfranchised by a constitutional amendment and placed in political supremacy over the teachers, trainers, wives and mothers of statesmen. Women now demand a 16th amendment that shall place them on terms of equality as law-makers with the men of every class, color and degree to whose power they are held in abeyance, and whose rule they are taxed to sustain. Our worst stumbling block hitherto has been the timidity of women mistaken for apathy by husbands and other opponents of public agitation—a timidity that has kept many of them aloof from the work in which they are so much needed. These conventions will go far towards breaking through the trammels of custom and placing such women in the front of the ranks—women whose duty gauged by their talents and inclinations would long ere this have placed them in the lead but for the social and domestic trammels that have held them back. A realization of individual liberty of complete equality with those around us and a consciousness of perfect freedom to act according to our highest conception of duty alone can give the highest impulse for the development of a noble character. I would by no means underrate the important duties of wifehood and motherhood. But I fain would see all men and women learn to understand that a woman who does her duty only as a wife and mother fails also in that duty quite as much as any man would correspondingly fail in all things if he only did his duty as a husband and father, forgetful of other obligations (equally important, because including these) that he owes to society and the commonwealth. Our demand for personal and political liberty and responsibility, involves the same principle that underlies the foundation of a free government for men. Every woman should bear in mind that injustice to one woman is injustice to all. Instead of forming clubs for the study of Greek art, heathen mythology and microscopic investigations, women should form liberty clubs and devote their spare time to investigating the service of government and the general good of the whole people. This is the primal object of these conventions. Let our sessions be earnest, harmonious and spirited. I am happy to announce that we have the material in readers for a grand intellectual logical and musical treat and I shall place the same in the hands of the committee on programme, with a confident feeling that they will do their duty. So shall a report go out from this convention that by the end of the public press, shall awaken thought in every community where the influence of types is felt. Women in lonely farm houses will read of our work and take courage. Men in the market places will pause and read and commend. School children will discuss the question, and everywhere it will gain added impetus through your deliberations.

The president appointed the following committees:

On Programme—Mrs M. A Dalton, Mrs M A Edmunds and Mr J [illegible] Smith.

On Finance—Mrs. Belle W Cooke, Mrs H. A Loughery and Mr B O Duniway.

The treasurer Dr Agnes W Burr having removed from the state the president appointed Mrs Belle W Cooke treasurer pro tem.

Mrs M A. Edmunds the corresponding secretary presented letters from parties who had been invited to attend the meetings of the association.

It was agreed to place a letter box at the door of the Y M C A hall for the reception of questions for discussion and other interesting matters. Friends are cordially invited to contribute to the letter box either directly or through the corresponding secretary Mrs M A Edmunds.

The committee on programme reported as follows subject to action of public sessions:

For Thursday—A 9 A M opening session music by Mrs Belle W Cooke, reading of questions from letter box, discussion—subject, Should Women own the Home.

Second Session at [illegible] P M—Music, letter box music, resolutions and general business.

Third Session at [illegible] P M—Music, led by Mr Heroy, Dr Hurt and Miss Baker, address Universal Liberty by Judge W H Adams, music by Mrs Professor Prentice and Miss Mary [illegible], address by Mrs Belle W Cooke, music, by Dr O B Burr [illegible] minute speeches.

Friday's programme will be announced in due time. Many prominent citizens have agreed to take part in the discussions.

Just lovely—is the way the girls speak of the leap year Caramels at S I Stone's.

THE DEATH-RATE OF

Our country is getting to be fearfully alarming, the average of life being lessened every year with out any reasonable cause, death resulting generally from the most insignificant origin. At this season of the year especially a cold is such a common thing that in the hurry of every day life we are apt to overlook the dangers attending it and often find too late that a Fever or Lung trouble has set in. Thousands lose their lives in this way every winter while had Boschee's German Syrup been taken a cure would have resulted and a large bill from a doctor been avoided. For all diseases of the Throat and Lungs Boschee's German Syrup has proven itself to be the greatest discovery of its kind in medicine. Every Druggist in this country will tell you of its wonderful effect. Over 950,000 bottles sold last year without a single failure known.

THE COMING ERA.

They tell us that the muse is soon to fly hence
  Leaving the bowers of song that were once dear,
Her robes bequeathing to her sister, science,
  The groves of Pindus for the ax to clear.

Optics will claim the wandering eye of fancy,
  Physics will grasp imagination's wings,
Plain fact exorcise fiction's necromancy,
  The workshop hammer where the minstrel sings.

No more with laughter at Thalia's frolics
  Our eyes shall twinkle till the tears run down,
But in her place the lecturer on hydraulics
  Spout forth his watery science to the town.

No more our foolish passions and affections
  The tragic muse with mimic grief shall try,
But, nobler far, a course of vivisections
  Teach what it costs a tortured brute to die.

The unearthed monad, long in buried rocks hid,
  Shall tell the secret whence our being came;
The chemist shows us death in life's black oxide,
  Left when the breath no longer fans its flame.

Instead of cracked brained poets in their attics
  Filling thin volumes with their flowery talk,
There shall be books of wholesome mathematics;
  The tutor with his blackboard and his chalk.

No longer bards with madrigal and sonnet
  Shall woo to moonlight walks the ribboned sex,
But side by side the beaver and the bonnet
  Stroll, calmly pondering on some problem's x.

The sober bliss of serious calculation
  Shall mock the trivial joys that fancy drew,
And, Oh, the rapture of a solved equation,—
  One self same answer on the lips of two!

So speak in solemn tones our youthful sages,
  Patient, severe, laborious, slow, exact,
As o'er creation's protoplasmic pages
  They browse and munch the thistle crops of fact.

And yet we've sometimes found it rather pleasant
  To dream again the scenes that Shakspeare drew,—
To walk the hillside with the Scottish peasant
  Among the daisies wet with morning's dew;

To leave awhile the daylight of the real,
  Led by the guidance of the master's hand,
For the strange radiance of the far ideal,—
  "The light that never was on sea or land."

Well, time alone can lift the future's curtain—
  Science may teach our children all she knows,
But love will kindle fresh young hearts, 'tis certain,
  And June will not forget her blushing rose.

And so, in spite of all that time is bringing,—
  Treasures of truth and miracles of art,
Beauty and love will keep the poet singing,
  And song still live,—the science of the heart.

—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

THE MAN WHO WAS KICKED.

I first saw Davis at H—— Academy, when, at the beginning of the Spring term in 1860, he sidled into the farther end of a seat to lean against the wall. He was then about twenty-seven years of age. A tall, gaunt, awkward man, clad in a faded, ill-fitting suit of homespun, and walking with an undecided, hesitating gait, with his head thrown forward, and one uncertain hand helplessly rubbing a receding chin, was the figure presented as he went out of the hall at the close of prayers. Infirmity of purpose was written all over him. He had an air of being old without ever having been young. His face was long, with large features, high cheek bones, a long wide, prominent mouth, and a receding chin, from which a straggling whisker protruded a certain way, as though in doubt whether to grow longer or disappear altogether. It was a very weak face, with an infirm quiver of the hardly closed lower lip, and vacillating [illegible] eyes of a very pale blue. Its weakness and indecision might have been comical but for an expression of earnestness and [illegible] made it pathetic. His speech was [illegible] and appealing, as though craving [illegible] indulgence for his temerity when [illegible] at all. Yet there was such assurance of his hearers' sympathy and help, that it generally carried its point.

From the time when Davis first sidled into [illegible] seat and leaned against the wall for support, he continued leaning, only exchanging [illegible] for his classmates, or indeed any one [illegible] would carry his weight. No sooner did his support give way in one direction than he transferred himself to another, and leaned all [illegible]. During the years of his academic life his manners retained their primitive simplicity, despite the constant attrition to which they were subjected at the hands of his [illegible]. His taste in dress took no turn for the [illegible], his bearing and gait changed not an [illegible], and when he set out on foot for the hill [illegible] whence he came, he seemed exactly the same old young man that had sidled in [illegible] three years before.

A short time afterward I learned that he was teaching the school of his native village. [illegible] out, however, that he carried his [illegible] of leaning even with him there. He asked [illegible] of his pupils as to what he should [illegible] frequently that they took advantage of his [illegible] to do pretty much as they pleased, [illegible] the master out, refused to attend [illegible] save at their own pleasure, and [illegible] enjoyed themselves to such an [illegible] that the trustees felt compelled to demand his resignation on the ground of lack of [illegible]. After that he went into the [illegible] and taught a district school, boarding [illegible] among his pupils. It was while thus [illegible] he became temporarily resident in [illegible] of a small farmer, possessed of a [illegible] questionable character, and several [illegible] for some time in the matrimonial [illegible]. These latter were thin, sharp-faced, [illegible] maids who partook of the unattractive characteristics of their sire. The [illegible] unattractive, perhaps, of them all set [illegible] eyes upon Davis, in lack of better material, and actually became his wife before that [illegible] person had decided what to do in [illegible]. After this he drifted out of my [illegible] and his memory, with that of [illegible] associates, rapidly merged into [illegible] yellow leaf of recollection.

[illegible] summer of 1871, I was one of the [illegible] prospecting party in Western [illegible]. We intended to penetrate the Indian country as far as the Souci river, near [illegible] line returning by way of the Black Hills if circumstances permitted. The [illegible] constituting the party were all [illegible] armed, and we had, by way of impedimenta, three mule wagons. The day before we started from the small town which, [illegible] the fortnight previous had been our headquarters, a tall round-shouldered man sauntered [illegible] the camp and leaning against a [illegible] looked kindly but inquiringly [illegible]. He wore a long coat of alpaca, of [illegible] cut, and a wideawake hat, fus[illegible] and low gaiters tied with a [illegible]. His face was long, and its features [illegible], and a retreating mouth, almost destitute of teeth, gave a greater prominence to a [illegible] elongated nose. He carried a black [illegible] stick, and altogether he was a [illegible] mixture of the clerical with the rustic. After being made the butt of considerable ridicule, he expressed in a hesitating [illegible], his desire to go to the Black Hills. And when I returned to camp towards evening, I found the stranger added to the party as the guide, philosopher, and friend of one of the mule teams. A glance at the awkward figure was enough. It was Davis. How he came there was told in a single one of his [illegible] sentences.

"You see, Mrs. Davis left me, and took up with a neighbor of ours. I suppose I was too slow for her, but I thought it might make her uncomfortable to have me living so close by, so I came west."

Further conversation revealed the fact that he had tramped most of the way, and that his earthly possessions were wrapped in the flaming handkerchief which he brought into camp [illegible] in the evening.

It was apparent from the first that the characteristics that had made Davis a conspicuous figure in academical days had not [illegible] him as he had grown older. He began leaning from the moment he came into camp. After futile attempts upon myself, he transferred his weight to a man from Kentucky—a demonstrative, devil-may-care fellow who was his opposite in every respect. The first day's drive, too, revealed the fact that, whatever may have been his capabilities as a district school teacher, they did not assist him in the driving of mules. More than once he involved the leaders in a hopeless tangle with the wheel animals, and his complications with the harness were a pathetic mixture of helplessness and ignorance. As to his helplessness, it was unique and complete in its way. He seemed utterly incapable of doing anything without advice and assistance.

It is, perhaps, needless to say these characteristics, however original and amusing in themselves, were not such as to elevate their possessor in the esteem of the party. In less than a week from the day of the departure the man from Kentucky had warned Davis not to come near him again at the risk of being crippled for life. At the end of a fortnight, I grieve to say, he had been kicked by an irascible member of the party, and the propriety of deserting him on the plains had been seriously discussed. Hardly a man spoke to him, and he seemed a very pariah in the camp.

After we had been three weeks out, there were not wanting signs of the proximity of hostile Sioux. Signal smokes were seen in the evening, and small clouds of dust low down upon the horizon indicated the presence of scouting bands. In the mid-afternoon of a sunny Sunday, as we were slowly ascending a low ridge in the prairie, the advance scout came galloping in with a ball through his arm, and a moment later a yelling band of Sioux began to circle about the train. To dismount and form the three wagons into a triangular barricade was the work of but a few minutes. Most of the men knew their danger and how to meet it. The Sioux were in large force and narrowed their circles in the assurance of an easy victory. Their bullets began dropping in almost immediately. In three minutes after the ball opened several of the animals had been killed, and Johnson, our leader, lay under the wagon with a bullet through his head.

As I said, all the party were heavily armed. But I should have excepted Davis, who not only was unarmed, but from his general character was deemed quite capable of grovelling in the dust at such a time. In the hurry of the moment he had been lost sight of, and now, when he slipped forward to possess himself of the dead man's gun, the man from Kentucky told him, with an oath, to drop it or give it to some one who would use it. Davis did not drop it, however, but took his station at the rear end of one of the wagons. In a moment more the spirally decreasing number of savages broke suddenly and swept in a wild charge toward the train. And as we turned toward the point of attack to see two of the advancing warriors drop to the quick report of Davis' rifle, I think surprise and astonishment would have rendered us incapable of resistance, had not the Indians swerved from their course and began circling again as they did.

But the man who had turned the attack never stirred from his post. His slouching aspect seemed somehow to be shaken off, as he stood there erect and firm as a rock. His infirm under lip closed up like a steel trap into a hard, straight line. His pale blue eyes wore a cool, decided look. The man from Kentucky looked at him a moment, and went back to his post with a muttered: "Well, I'll be blanked!" The guide tying his wounded arm in a sling, said he'd "give it up." The whole party breathed freer.

But the whistling of bullets and the yells of the Sioux continued. In a short time the canvas tops of the wagons looked like gigantic sieves. The circles of the savages widened only to contract again. Whenever a reckless brave approached within fair range, the sharp crack of the Winchester from the rear of the wagon sent a ball into his painted body. There was no random firing from that rifle; every shot brought its man. The repeated charges of the Sioux grew less frequent from the fact of the loss of two or three of their number under the deadly aim of those pale blue eyes. It was after the fifth or sixth charge of this kind that the man from Kentucky expressed the unanimous sentiment of the party when he said:

"Hadn't yer better get further under cover, Davis? It's purty open thar." But Davis shook his head without changing position.

The evening wore slowly away. The minutes sent by to an accompaniment of shot and yell. Some of the animals were lying dead beside the wagons. The spokes of the wheels and the beds of the vehicles were riddled and splintered with bullets. Charge after charge had been repulsed. Three men were lying badly wounded inside the triangle. The victims of the deadly Winchester formed a straggling line almost from its muzzle to the circle of discomfited but not defeated Sioux beyond. Its owner had hardly spoken a word in all that time, but had stood there like a statue of Fate. Night came on, and a low moon wrapped the landscape in dusky crayons. The savages retained their circular guard, prepared to renew the attack on the morrow. Shadowy forms crept warily through the tall grass and dragged away the dead. The wounded began to plead piteously for water, and there was none to give.

It was at a call of this kind from the man who had kicked him from his place at the camp fire a few days previous that Davis left his post to come forward and ask if no water was to be had. He was told that there was none; that the nearest water was a small pond at the foot of the ridge, just within the surrounding circle of Sioux. Taking a bucket from the wagon, Davis said quietly, "I'll get some." Not a man of the party spoke. Everybody realized that something heroic was about to be done. Good God! To go to the pond was to go to almost certain death. And yet no one bade him stay. I think every one was impressed with the fact that it would be useless.

We crept back to our posts in silence.

Even the wounded ceased their moans. We watched the tall figure striding straight through the shadows till it was lost in the gloom. Then came an interval of silence—awful, appalling—broken at last by a shot and a chorus of yells. In a moment all the demons of the prairie seemed let loose. Shot followed shot; the howls had something exultant in them.

Through the gloom there came a shadow—a tall figure running with a bucket in its hand. Following close behind a myriad of dusky forms, with gleaming knives and clubbed guns. Then our work began. A continuous sheet of fire belched from the wagons turned the howling Sioux back on their trail. In a moment more Davis staggered into the triangle with a bucket half filled with water in his hand. The man from Kentucky left his post to grasp his hand in a grip that would have crushed weaker bones.

"Mr. Davis," he said, "yer a man as this party is proud of." The bronzed men crouching behind the wagons turned in their places to smile assent. But the hero who had run that gauntlet of fire simply placed the bucket beside the man who had kicked him, and quietly went back to his post.

The Sioux, exasperated by their defeat, kept up a desultory fire through the long grass. Just before dawn they charged again. But the Winchester alone killed three braves before the wagons were reached, and it was converted into a club, wielded by a giant. When the morning came the Sioux were found watching our movements from a safe distance over the prairie. Evidently the fight was costing them too dear.

It was determined by the party, in view of the probability of the Sioux being re-enforced during the day, to beat a retreat. The man from Kentucky harnessed Mr. Davis' mules with his own hands; but when he came to hand the reins to their powder-begrimed owner, it was found that he was in no condition to receive them. He had been wounded in half a dozen places, and the slow hemorrhage had robbed him of his strength.

We lifted him tenderly into the wagon and began our march. The Sioux circled about us, but kept well out of range. By midday they had disappeared. It was about this time that the man from Kentucky, who had been intently watching his patient for some time, brought his wagon to a sudden halt. Gathering about him, we found Davis with his eyes turned to the sky and a grayish hue stealing over his face.

A minute after he reached his hand out to grasp the Kentuckian's and so journeyed out into the infinite solitude.

We rode in silence. When the shadows of the evening came we dug a rude grave in the prairie and buried Davis out of sight. The man from Kentucky framed his epitaph when he said: "He didn't seem of much account at first, but he loomed up powerful toward the last."

There is a much stronger feeling in the wheat market to-day, and a few transactions are noted, mostly on private terms, but it is claimed by some of those who are posted that the cereal is worth here $1 90 per cental free on board, or about $1 87½ delivered on the dock. Advices from San Francisco to-day indicate a very active condition of that market, and a number of important transactions are reported in our dispatches below.

Telegraphic reports from the east also show an increased demand and an advance of 1@2c per bushel.

London and Liverpool dispatches intimate a very great interest in the movement in breadstuffs now going on in America, and it is thought to be a question of who can hold out the longest.

Flour is in good request at our last quotations.

Provisions are more plentiful, and prices for common lots of side meat, shoulders and hams are inclined to shade off and would be hard to place except at a decline of ½@1c ⅌ lb.

Other products unchanged.

SAN FRANCISCO MARKETS

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 10.—The wheat season is so far advanced that holders of the comparatively small amount not available for export are quite content to wait for definite information with regard to prospects of next harvest, believing that in any event there can be but little reaction from present figures.

To-day the market is characterized by unusual briskness. Both shippers and millers were on hand as buyers, and although the reported sales are quite large, they would have been more numerous had holders been anxious to meet the inquiry at bidding rates. Transactions of over 100,000 centals were made public, and it was stated that pending negotiations for at least half as much more would probably be closed before night. The sales embrace 38,000 centals choice shipping delivered at Stockton at a figure equivalent to $1 96½ here, 22,000 do. delivered at Vallejo at $1 96¼, 10,000 do. No. 1 at $1 95, 4,000 do. at $1 95. There was also a round lot of 30,000 centals No. 2 sold for export on private terms.

Butter—Not over 26c can be obtained for fancy dairies, and good to choice brands are steady at 23@25c; inferior to ordinary, 17@20c; inside rate for mixed lots from country stores California or skin, 18@2 c.

Cheese—California, 13@14c; eastern, 16@18c.

Eggs—21@22½c.

Shipping Intelligence.

The barkentine Jane A. Falkinburg, from Honolulu to Allen & Lewis, arrived last night in tow of the Ocklahama. She brought 4,102 kegs of sugar and 400 bags of rice.

It is decided to draw the Jane A. Falkinburg off the island trade and place her in different service.

The Caithness received a thousand tons of wheat, all in one day. This is the quickest stevedoring in this city that has come to our knowledge. The vessel will be towed to Astoria by the Ocklahama to-morrow. She will take in the remainder of her cargo at Astoria, which will be sent by boat.

The American ship Eliza McNeil will commence receiving cargo to-morrow.

The schooner Trustee was discharging to-day.

The steamship California, for Sitka and way ports, stopped receiving cargo at 6 P. M. She sails to-morrow at daylight.

The Celeño was discharging ballast to-day and to-morrow will commence receiving wheat.

The barge Autocrat finished taking in wheat at the east side and was brought to the Pacific, where she will take in some flour, the balance of the Merwanjee Framjee's cargo. She will be taken to Astoria to-morrow.

DR. BRENAN WILL GUARANTEE TO CURE any form of disease of the generative organs or private disease.

He has become an expert in the treatment of disease, weakness and derangement of the reproductive organs of both male and female, including diseases caused by the

FOLLIES OF YOUTH,

Such as SPERMATORRHEA, or SEMINAL WEAKNESS, or LOSS OF PERFECT VITALITY. Nearly two thirds of all the Chronic Diseases spring, either directly or indirectly, from some derangement of the sexual system, and yet this subject is neglected by the majority of the Medical Profession.

I know that persons who are unfortunate enough to be afflicted by any form of sexual disease have a delicacy in calling upon the proper physician in time, from a sense of modesty and sometimes from ignorance, and permit those diseases to exist until their constitutions become corrupted, their organization broken down and the hope of future happiness blighted, until death becomes a welcome messenger to carry them out of their miserable existence.

Everything strictly confidential under all circumstances.

Lost manhood perfectly restored.

Catarrh, Bronchitis, Throat Diseases, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Kidney Complaint and all Diseases of the Eye and Ear, Stomach and Bladder, he can cure without fail.

LANDS,

PEN D'OREILLE DIVISION.

THE NORTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY

Is now offering for sale nearly

5,000,000

Acres of its lands in the Pen d'Oreille Division in Eastern Oregon, which are comprised in the odd numbered sections for forty miles on each side of the railroad as now located from the mouth of Snake River, in Washington Territory, to Lake Pen d'Oreille, in Idaho. These lands, of unexcelled fertility, and adapted to farming on any scale that may be desired, are offered by the Railroad Company at such prices and terms as cannot fail to induce settlement and cultivation, causing a rapid growth in population of the country, and increase in value to those who now purchase.

The following Resolution of the Board of Directors of the Railroad Company, passed November 19th, 1879, fixes the cash price of land to actual settlers at two dollars and sixty cents per acre, which it is believed is a lower price than has ever been voluntarily placed upon its lands by any land grant company. This is, in fact, cheaper than the settler can purchase the same class of land of the Government under the pre-emption law, for the expense attending the making of final proof, and the journey to the land office which he must necessarily make in order to complete his entry, is more than the ten cents per acre added to the government price by the Railroad Company:

"Resolved, That the Agricultural Lands of the Company west of the Missouri river to Puget Sound shall be offered for sale to actual settlers at Government price of $2 50 per acre, with an addition thereto of ten cents per acre to be paid to the Company to reimburse it for the cost of selecting, surveying and conveying said land.

"This resolution does not apply to coal or iron lands, nor to lands chiefly valuable for timber, nor to lands required for town sites or suitable for manufacturing sites, nor in regions where water is scarce to lands containing springs or other natural supply, where it shall be for the interest of settlers at large that such water privileges shall not be exclusively held or controlled by any individual; nor to the lands required for the use of the Company in connection with the operation of the road."

To persons wishing to purchase on time, the remarkably low price of four dollars per acre is given on the following terms: One fourth cash at time of purchase, the balance in three equal yearly payments at 7 per cent. interest. The above price for time sales is adopted for the present, but may be subject to change in the future.

All persons who have filed with the Railroad Company notices of intention to purchase, or "Settlers' Applications," as they are called, for land in this Division (except for the class of lands reserved by the terms of the resolution above given) and who have continued to reside upon or cultivate the land applied for, are requested to complete their purchase by making cash payment or time contract, for the same. For this purpose application should be made to the Railroad Land Office at Colfax.

Persons who have not made actual settlement or improvement upon land they may have applied for, have no right to the first privilege of purchase; such lands will be sold to the first applicant. Those persons who have in good faith settled upon and improved the Company's land should lose no time in securing the same, as after a given time the land is subject to sale to any other person.

The land in this division being now offered for sale, no more "Settlers' Applications" will be filed.

ASSIGNEE'S SALE

VALUABLE REAL ESTATE.

IN THE MATTER OF LEVI ESTES, AND C. M. Carter, bankrupts. In bankruptcy. Pursuant to an order of the Honorable District Court of the United States, for the District of Oregon, made the 3d day of February 1880, I will on Monday the 1st day of March 1880, at the hour of 10 o'clock A.M., sell all the right, title and interest of said estate, to wit, the interest of Levi Estes, bankrupt, vested in said assignee, in and to lots numbered 3 and 4 in block numbered 39 of the city of Portland, Multnomah county and State of Oregon, being an undivided one half interest in said lots and the buildings thereon, at public auction for U. S. gold coin in hand, at the door of the County Court House in Portland in said County.

Said one half interest in said lands will, by order of said court, be sold subject to a certain mortgage owned by D. P. Thompson Esq. but free from all judgment or other liens.

And pursuant to an order of said Court made on the 18th day of March 1879, I will also at the same time and place, sell at public auction for U. S. gold coin in hand, all the right, title and interest of said estate in and to that piece of land located in said Multnomah county and State of Oregon, being a part of section 28, T. 1, N. R. 1, E. described by the following boundaries, commencing at the South East corner of Wm. Blackiston's donation land claim, and thence N. 50° W. 6 chains, N. 58° W. 27 chains 50 links, N. 45° W. 18 chains 40 links to claim corner, E. 1 chain 80 links, S. 47½° E. 18 chains 50 links, S. 52° E. 27 chains 50 links, S. 50° E. 6 chains, West 80 links to place of beginning: containing 5 acres more or less—said last above described piece of land lying and being between the meander line of said William Blackistone's donation land claim and low water mark of the Willamette River.

And pursuant to an order of said Court made on said last mentioned date, I will also sell at the same time and place at public auction for U. S. gold coin in hand, all the right, title and interest of said estate, in and to the said "William Blackistone's donation land claim," situate in said County and State.

MIDDLE AGED MEN.

There are many at the age of thirty [illegible] who are troubled with too frequent evacuations of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation and a weakening of the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. On examining the urinary deposits a ropy sediment will often be found, and sometimes small particles of albumen will appear, or the color will be of a thin milkish hue, again changing to a dark and torpid appearance. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is the second stage of seminal weakness. Dr. S. will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs.
